

Katherine Rundell: An Adventurous Storyteller

Katherine Rundell is a brilliant author who writes exciting and magical books about daring adventures, wild places, and brave kids. Some of her most famous books are Rooftoppers, The Explorer, and The Good Thieves.

Early Life

Katherine was born on July 10, 1987, in Kent, England, but she didn't stay in one place for long. Her family moved to Zimbabwe when she was a baby, and she spent her childhood climbing trees and exploring nature. Later, she lived in Brussels, Belgium. Her adventurous spirit as a child gave her lots of ideas for her stories.

Becoming a Writer

Katherine always loved books and writing. She became an author when she was in her twenties, and her stories are full of wonder, excitement, and heart. She often writes about young characters who face big challenges with courage and cleverness.

Fun Facts About Katherine Rundell

- Katherine loves climbing! She has climbed rooftops in Paris, just like the characters in Rooftoppers.
- She says her favorite thing is to explore new places and learn about the world.
- She also writes essays and poetry for adults.

Awards and Achievements

Katherine's books have won many awards, including the Costa Children's Book Award and the Waterstones Children's Book Prize. Her stories inspire readers to dream big and embrace adventure.

A Writer Who Believes in Wonder

Katherine Rundell's books remind us that the world is full of magic and possibilities. If you love thrilling adventures and unforgettable characters, her stories are perfect for you!